

I oppose the idea of weakening Indiana's Telephone Privacy Act by creating a lower standard for the entire nation. Indiana's Telephone Privacy Act has made a vast difference in the quality of my own life and the life of my family. Whereas we used to receive five to ten unwanted solicitations per evening, we now receive none. I have a policy of not purchasing anything over the phone anyway; so the solicitations were nothing but a nuisance. Receiving these calls disrupted time with my family and, in general, made us all angrier, reducing the quality of time spent together. I do not wish to receive ANY phone solicitations whatsoever. Indiana's law is the best possible solution. Don't override it and weaken it. Thank you for your attention.
